Singapore Airlines to launch flights to Riyadh

Singapore Airlines is to launch operations to Riyadh, the largest city and capital of Saudi Arabia, on 14 December 2008. Using the Boeing 777-200 aircraft, Singapore Airlines will operate four times weekly to Riyadh via Dubai every Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

"A historical city that is developing at breathtaking speed into one of the most important business centres in the Middle East, Riyadh has, over the years, become the focal point of travel and trade for visitors to Saudi Arabia," said Mr. Huang Cheng Eng, Singapore Airlines' Executive Vice President, Marketing and the Regions. "The introduction of Singapore Airlines' new service to Riyadh is a sign of our confidence in the tremendous potential of the Middle Eastern region. We believe that this service will help foster a closer bilateral trade link between Singapore and Saudi Arabia, while boosting the business and leisure travel traffic between Asia and Saudi Arabia."

Home to the sleek and iconic Kingdom Centre, the tallest building in Saudi Arabia, Riyadh rivals any modern city with the splendour of its architecture, sophisticated infrastructure and rapid economic growth.

nevertheless retained its historical and cultural charms, with must-see attractions like the ruins of Dir'ayah, a popular archaeological site, the Murabba Palace with its exhibit of traditional clothing and crafts, and the Masmak Fortress, built in the middle of the 19th century.

Riyadh will be the second city to which Singapore Airlines operates in Saudi Arabia. The airline will maintain its current three-times-weekly service to Jeddah, via Abu Dhabi.

In addition to the new Singapore-Dubai-Riyadh service, Singapore Airlines will boost the frequency of its flights to Istanbul, Turkey, via Dubai, from four to six flights per week from 26 October 2008.

The new flights depart Singapore on Mondays and Fridays, and mean Singapore Airlines will fly on the Singapore-Dubai-Istanbul route daily except Wednesdays.

The increased frequency will boost the airline's services between Singapore and Dubai to 16 flights per week, up from the current 14 flights.

This will increase further to 20 times weekly following the launch of the four times weekly Singapore-Dubai-Riyadh services on 14 December 2008. courtesy: asiatraveltips.com
